

Abundance

Cornus capitata (Strawberry Tree)

The ultimate abundance essence

We have come through the long journey of lack and limitation, and we have experienced the pain of poverty and destitution.

Now, finally, we see the truth, that actually it was always ours for the asking, but we could not see it, and we would not see it until we had been through all of the illusions of not having it... until we had let go of all desire for it... and until we had realized that the way to true abundance lies in the releasing of the desire, because it is the desire for it that is blocking the realization that we actually already have that which we think we desire.

Affirmation: “I now fully reclaim my power, and move on from this.”
